

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A radial component of a total wrist arthroplasty prosthesis includes a platform having a stem configured to be implanted within the radius bone. The platform carries an insert that provides the radial articulating component for the wrist joint. The platform and insert include mating features that allow for ready engagement or disengagement of the insert to the platform when the platform is implanted to the radius bone.